BA WORLD PERFORMANCE PRESENTS

REVOLUTION

A POLITICAL THEATRE DOUBLE BILL

¿QUÉ?

DIRECTED BY ANDRÉ PINK

Oscar and Liddy, two strangers from very separate lives — one fleeing from his home, the other desperately trying to protect hers. Drawn together by an unknown force, will their biggest obstacle be the language barrier between them or the treacherous journey they are about to embark on?

RUNNING TIME:

This double bill is 110 mins long including a 15 min interval.

RATING: 16+

Both plays will be staged at each performance. Please note, this production contains strong language, scenes of a violent nature, scenes of a sexual nature, scenes viewers may find distressing.
Gunshots/loud bangs, strobe lighting/flashes, sirens, smoke machines.

A NOTE FROM THE DIRECTOR:

My brief was to devise a piece of Political Theatre with the students. I made an offer as a starting point: a comic story. There is a tradition of using fables, parables – stories, to make a point or generate reflection. Think Brecht’s Epic Theatre, for example. I should write about the themes of the piece now, but I am going to avoid that so to leave space for your own thoughts and avoid spoilers. It is worth mentioning that adapting a comic requires transposition of one artform to another and the last 7 weeks have also been a vertical research into how to orchestrate that: Content X Form.

The original comic in which this piece is loosely based is called Barrier by Brian K. Vaughan, Marcos Martin and Muntsa Vicente. If you want to read it, you can download it at www.panelsyndicate.com where you can get great digital comics directly from creators by paying whatever you want. I highly recommend it since Vaughan is amongst the most interesting comic writers working now and Martin’s art is jaw-dropping.
